Yet we recall with love and pride Our dead of fifty years ago Who fought on gory fields and died That we might have the peace we know.

How do we keep the faith with those Who watch us from beyond the grave, If, sunk in sloth and greed, we pose As careless of the gift they gave ?

Blood was their gift, and cruel death! Brave warriors of the blue and gray, Sleep on! The God of Battles saith Time shall not take your fame away.

Berlin, May 30.—Germany withholds its final decision on the demands advanced by the United States government in connection mith the sinking of the Lusitania until the receipt of an answer from the United States to the note which Herr Von Jagow, the foreign minister, has delivered to Ambassador Gerard, in reply to the large and fastest British merchant ships built with government funds as an auxilassador Gerard, in reply

"It is further known to the imperial government from trustworthy reports from its agents and neutral passengers that for a considerable time practically all the more valuable British merchantmen have been equip-ped with cannon and ammunition and other weapons and manned with persons who have been specially trained in serving guns. The Lustiania, too, according to information received, had cannon aboard which were mounted and concealed below decks.

"The imperial mayer ment further

"The imperial government further has the honor to direct the particu-lar attention of the American government that the British admiralty in a confidential instruction, issued in Feb-ruary, 1915, recommended its mercanile shipping not only to seek protection under neutral flags and distin guishing marks, but also, while thus disguised, to attack German subma-rines by ramming. As a special incitation to merchantmen to destroy submarines, the British government also offered high prizes and has al-

"The imperial government, in view of these facts indubitably known to it, is unable to regard British mer-chantmen in the zone of naval opera-tions specified by the admiralty staff of the German navy as 'undefended.' "There can be no doubt, according to the definite report of the submarine's commander, which is further confirmed by all other information that the sinking of the usitania is primarily attributable to the explosion of the ammunition shipment caused by a torpedo. The Lusitania's passengers would, otherwise, in all human probability, have been saved. "The imperial government considers the above mentioned facts important enough to recommend them to the at-
